

April 20th 2007,

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN,

Manami Chugun has been working with us as my children's Nanny and sometimes my personal Assistant for the past 6 months. Manami has definitely been one of the Best nannies we have employed thus far.

She possesses a gentle, even nature making it such a pleasure to have her around the house and children. They in turn just loved having Manami to look after them and were often sad when she had to go home. She was quite able to nurture and play when required, she helped the boys make art and craft for School Hat Parades, showed them the art of Origami and often spoke of Japanese traditions. This was wonderful and I was thrilled they were learning about another culture in such a fun way.

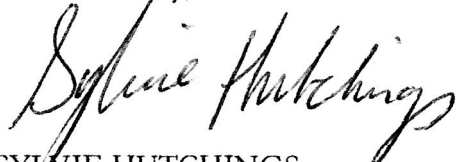

It is always hard to entrust your precious children to somebody else however, I never hesitated with Manami as I intuitively felt and knew that she loved them and would always look after them. Whenever I returned home the house was immaculate and the children happy and content.

Manami has a good command of the English language and had no trouble in understanding my requests. She would occasionally speak to the children in Japanese and soon they were saying a few words. It was something that we encouraged.

I have absolutely no hesitation in suggesting that Manami is a delightful, honest and intelligent young woman whom I know would be a wonderful asset in any job she chooses to pursue.

My husband Guy and I along with our children wish her, a safe and happy return to Japan and every success in the future.

Yours sincerely,

SYLVIE HUTCHINGS
